The Albanian Parliament has passed a package of amendments to the existing fiscal legislation in an attempt to support and improve commercial and business activities in the country. These provisions became effective on 24 August 2006.

Tax Procedures

New amendments to Law no. 8560, dated 22 December 1999 “On Tax Procedures”

Obtaining the Tax Certificate

According to the amended Law, to obtain the tax certificate the taxpayer is required to submit to the tax authorities only the Court Decision and the application form “Request for registration”. Tax authorities process the application within five days from the date the application is filed. The taxpayer will be deemed registered with tax authorities five days after the application date, even if the tax authorities do not provide the tax certificate within this time limit.

Penalty for undeclared employees

The new amendments provide for a penalty of Lek 10,000, imposed to the employer, for each undeclared employee (besides the obligation to pay undeclared social and health contributions as well as personal income tax for such employees).

Social Security Contributions

New amendments to Law no. 7703, dated 11 May 2006 “On Social Security Contributions”
